

WINE, BEER & SPIRITS FOR RETAIL DECISION MAKERS

BeverageDynamics

2018 SPECIAL EDITION #1

NEW

PRODUCTS GUIDE

HUNDREDS OF NEW PRODUCTS launched last year in the beverage alcohol industry. This guide recaps all of those that appeared on BeverageDynamics.com during 2017. From spirits to beer to wine to new packaging and everything else, it's all in here.

We intend for this new annual guide to fulfill two purposes. The first is to serve as a tool to keep track of everything that launched in 2017. The beverage alcohol industry is enjoying boom times, fueled largely by the rise of the craft category. Due to the small-batch/micro-producer/experimental nature of the craft industry, there are waves of new products that roll out so rapidly that it's hard to keep track of everything.

So peruse this guide to make sure you were aware of all the interesting products that debuted in 2017. If something catches your eye as having evaded your attention, and perhaps would be of interest to your customers, now would be a good time to place an order. Whenever possible, we have provided you with the supplier and producer information, product website and the suggested retail price.

The other purpose of this guide is trend research. Want to know what's currently defining consumer taste? Take a look at what products came out last year and you'll know what alcohol producers believe people will drink in 2018 and beyond.

You'll notice the enormous number of new whiskeys. This category comprised nearly a quarter of all products listed in our guide. Brown spirits are truly amidst a modern golden age.

Now look closer at the category. What do you notice? Probably that age statements are in decline. These have been replaced by a rise in blends, special-releases and barrel finishes.

Producers simply lack the aged stock to meet consumer demand. Expect to see fewer age statements moving forward. Especially because modern consumers (Millennials in particular) care little about whether a whiskey boasts a number on its bottle. They judge product by its branding and flavor; blends are fine.

This theme continued with wine. Red blends remained popular. These are premium wines with the flavor complexity to satisfy the expanded palate of today's consumers. Rosés also grew in number last year. They continue to overcome past perceptions about who drinks rosé, and during what season, to become a go-to wine for many people year-round.

Craft beer continued to grow, as did the trendy tequila/mezcal category. Interesting expressions launched in vodka and rum, while more-niche categories like brandy, sake and cachaça also picked up intriguing products. Flavored malt beverages and ready-to-drink products gained more momentum.

Many existing products updated their packaging or branding last year to better align with modern tastes. It's time well spent to read through this section to familiarize yourself with what bottles and brands now have different looks.

However you utilize the 2017 Beverage Dynamics New Products Guide, we hope it serves you well enough to keep around as a reference tool. We will publish a similar guide in early 2019 to recap everything new that hit retail shelves between now and then.

NEW SPIRITS INTRODUCED IN 2017

AMERICAN WHISKEY

1792 BOTTLED-IN-BOND

This bottled-in-bond Kentucky straight bourbon whiskey is 100 proof. On the palate are spice met with notes of charred oak and fresh mint, the company reports. Moving forward, additional batches will come out every fall.

URL:

www.1792bourbon.com

SRP: $35.99 per 750-ml. bottle.

ANGEL'S 2017 CASK STRENGTH BOURBON

This year's version is 62.25% ABV, or 124.5 proof. Beginning last year, the brand pulled back its port finishing on the product, resulting in a more bourbon-forward whiskey.

URL: www.angelsenvy.com

SRP: $199.99 per 750-ml. bottle.

BASIL HAYDEN'S DARK RYE

The first new permanent extension to the brand's whiskey portfolio. The new expression blends a Kentucky straight rye whiskey and Canadian rye from Alberta Distillery, with a splash of California port.

URL: www.basilhaydens.com

SRP: $39.99 for a 750-ml. bottle.

BERKSHIRE BOURBON SMOKE AND PEAT

This bourbon ages in Virginia American white oak barrels before transfer to ex-Islay Scotch casks for finishing. On the nose is smoke and peat, along with spice, vanilla, chocolate and oak. On the palate are bourbon notes, plus the smoke and peat.

URL: www.berkshiremountaindistillers.com

SRP: $60 per 750-ml. bottle.
